At the opening of the 1971-72 school year modern concepts in traditional fields offered a new incentive to students. The growing student body felt the need to modernize their school program to suit the changing times. This period of transition brought forth a new light on old traditions.

Colonnade Proudly Dedicated to Miss Bolen

Culpeper County has been the life-long home of Miss Mary George Bolen. Until just a few years ago Miss Bolen resided at the place of her birth, "Eldorado". Her early schooling took place in the one room schoolhouse near her farm. She remained in this school until her second year of high school when she transferred to the Culpeper High School, which is presently Ann Wingfield.

After graduating from CHS in 1919, Miss Bolen attended Farmville State Teachers College, now Longwood College, where she obtained her B.S. degree. Later, she continued her studies at the University of Virginia and the Columbia School of Library Service. Miss Bolen began her long career with the Culpeper County School System as a grade school teacher. She later became high school librarian and still manages to carry on this hard job.

Miss Bolen is very active in community affairs. She is a member of the Salem Garden Club and her beautiful dahlias, roses, jonquils, and chrysanthemums have often brightened up the school and homes of her friends. Among other organizations of which Miss Bolen is a member are the Culpeper Historical Society and the Ladies Fire Auxiliary. She also attends Alum Spring Baptist Church, where she teaches a Sunday School class.

Not only is Miss Bolen active in outside activities, but she contributes much to the school organizations. Miss Bolen serves as adviser of the Library Club, of Quill and Scroll, and of the COLONNADE. All three tasks are very time consuming, but she is always able to fulfill her many duties as adviser of these three organizations.

Because she has so willingly and unselfishly given of her time and energy to support school activities, because she has been adviser of the COLONNADE for twenty-eight years, and because she has been, and still is, so active in the community, the COLONNADE staff proudly dedicates the 1971 COLONNADE to Miss Mary George Bolen.

Miss Mary George Bolen gladly poses for this picture with Miss Fannie, who is her special pet.

While taking it easy, Miss Mary George Bolen rearranges the books on the shelf and talks with Mr. Jim Ellis, Hunter representative to the COLONNADE.

With a ferocious stare Mr. Harold Hook assistant principal, patrols the halls between lunch shifts.

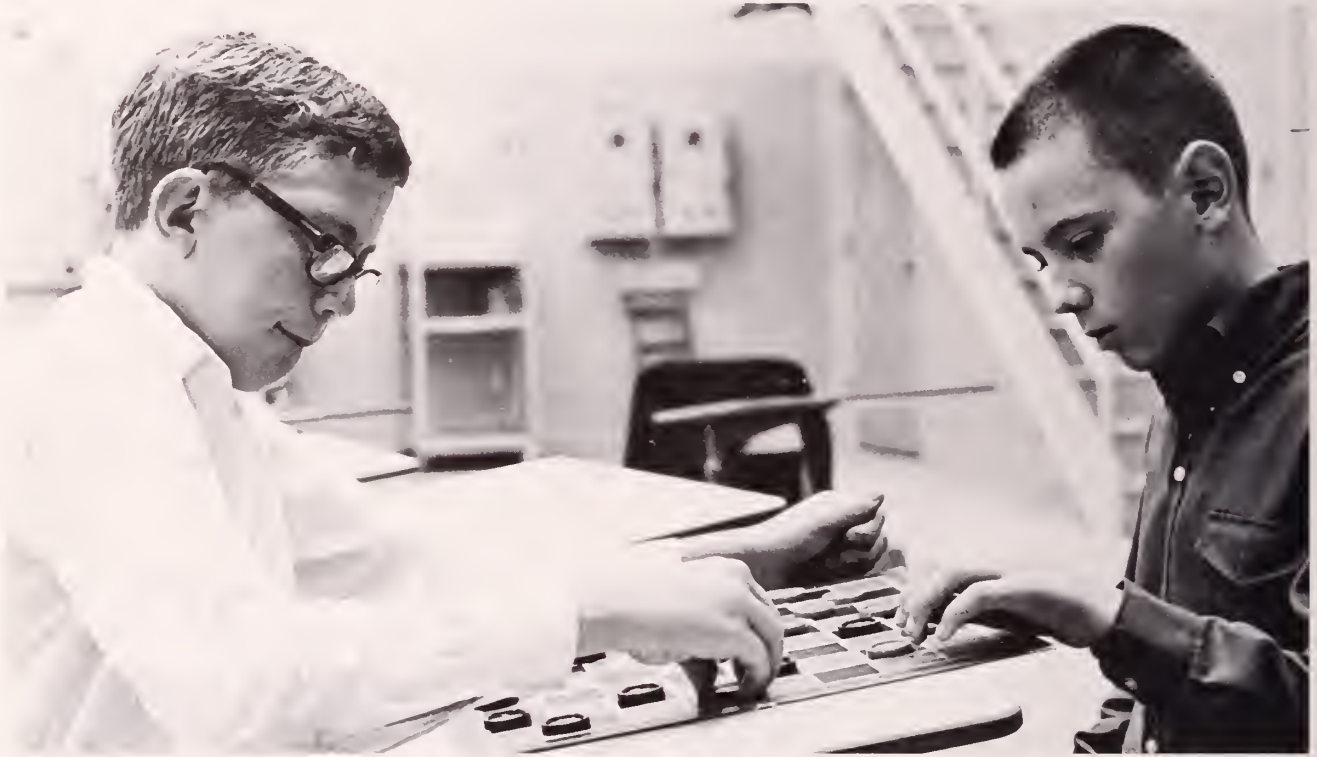

Mr. Harold Hook bestows upon Kyle Lovett, Homecoming Queen, a kiss of congratulations during half time activities.

Light on Old Traditions

Fads, Fashions Add New Light on Traditions

Daniel McCloud and Roger Fox occupy their time with a game of skill, checkers. A variety of activities exhibits a new light in old traditions in curriculum.

The Human Relations Committee, whose members are Dru Curd, Cathleen Pierce, Mr. James Avery, Wayne Woodward, Larry Scott, Howard Jones, Mrs. Wayne Duncan, Kathryn Magura, and Mr. Harold Hook, gives students a means to air their complaints and suggestions concerning students and administration.

Smiling faces shown by the Latin Club initiates, Farrell Payne, Bonnie Blankenbaker, Elaine Nicholson, and Frances Gabbert, display their pleasure in becoming a club member.

Wearing only one earring Craig Wood shows his fellow students how to keep with the styles. This is only one of the many fads and fashions which students exhibited throughout the school and the community.

Addressing the Junior Class, Mr. Thomas Earles gives the fundamentals in selling statinery used as a fund raising project for the Prom while Bernice Tharp listens intently.

STUDENT LIFE

With the excitement of a new year the students assembled throughout the school to discuss the scheduled activities. The busy schedule included dances, pep rallies, sports events, initiations, and plays which created a new light on long established traditions.

Students Return with Anticipation on August 27

After a three month's vacation, students returned with anticipation as a new school year began on August 27. The surroundings were familiar to the majority of the students, but to the freshmen it was an entirely different experience. The usual chaos of buying books, paying fees, and adjusting to schedules occupied the day. Sponsored by the FBLA, a used book sale was already in progress. Additions and changes marked a progressive and eventful term.

Beginning this year, a new rule denied the usage of full-length lockers by all boys, including seniors. All senior girls and underclassmen girls had the privilege of using the longer lockers.

Students enjoyed additional dances added to the school's schedule of activities. Assemblies and programs were more frequent. These activities made the year more enjoyable and interesting.

Additional senior privileges increased the importance of being a senior. Seniors acquired a reserved lunch line and their own drink machine.

Juniors and freshmen took Scat-Step tests each day for a week and a half from September 21-29.

Marian Thompson scans the homeroom list on August 27.

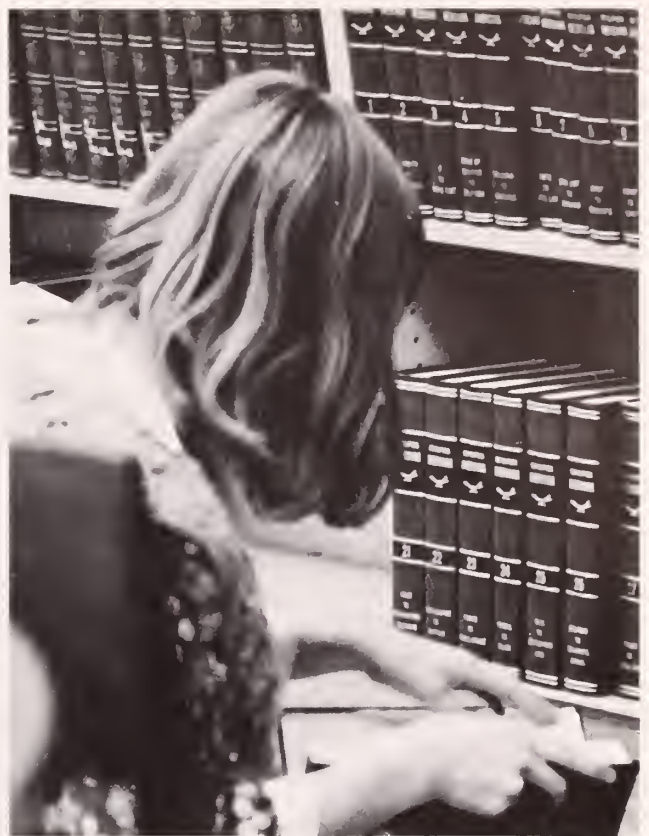

Representative Melissa Kidwell sells Jeffrey Lovett and William Koontz a Pepergram on the first day of school while Robin Adair, Carrolet Taylor, and Jane Rixey stand by.

Rosalind Henson contemplates while taking Scat-Step tests given to freshmen and juniors for a week and a half.

Bonita Rosenberg makes a purchase from James Mastin at the FBLA book sale while Janet Quaintance waits her turn.

Kim Hunter relaxes completely while making use of the library reference materials to complete an English report.

Devil Mascot Boosts Spirit at Homecoming

Homecoming proved to be a great occasion as spirit rose to its peak Friday night, while the Blue Devil mascot inspired the cheering fans. Queen Kyle Lovett, Maid of Honor Billie Cox, Junior Princess Bernice Tharp, Sophomore Princess Lynne Goldsborough, and Freshman Princess Valerie Thornhill were all beaming as the Blue Devils trounced the Hornets 34-0. Driven by the arch-rivalry between Culpeper and Orange, the Devils turned in an almost flawless performance. Escorts were Lewis Armstrong, Barney Grayson, George Dowell, John Rudy, and William Copeland.

Blue and gold streamers decorated the school cafeteria for the Homecoming Dance, as the couples danced to the music of the 45th Cavalry. The Junior Varsity and Varsity cheerleaders served refreshments. A game won and a queen crowned helped to make a successful Homecoming for all.

The Junior class sponsored a Grub Day and raised $305 on October 9. Selling stationery also helped the Juniors to begin raising money for the prom.

Despite a mix up in dates, the COLONNADE had individual pictures taken September 9 and 10, and group pictures taken October 26 and 27.

Quarterback David Small and Coach Bobbitte take time out during the Orange game to talk things over for the next play.

Bernice Tharp takes time out after class to show Neal Goldsborough her "new hairdo" on Grub Day, October 9.

Laura Neiman, Autumn Owsley, and Darlene Butler take advantage of the nice weather to draw outside during Art class.

Homecoming representatives Billie Cox, Kyle Lovett, Bernice Tharp, Valerie Thornhill, and Lynne Goldsborough await patiently the exciting moment when the queen is to be crowned.

Mr. James Graham, photographer, poses senior Patricia Jenkins for one of her five senior pictures.

New 'Outfits' Displayed by GAA Members

Many new "outfits" crowded the halls as the Girls Athletic Association initiation took place. As the old members shouted commands of "fall out", each girl dropped to her knees and praised the members. New members had to wear exactly what the old members told them and obey them all day. During activity period each girl was officially initiated.

Expertly performed, the Cloak and Dagger Clubs presented the play "Life With Father". Lots of hard work and time, not only in the acting but also in the props and outfits, went into the play. Continuing for two nights, November 13 and 14, the play proved successful for everyone.

National Honor Society held its annual induction service on November 17. There were thirty-four students tapped while students, friends, and parents looked on. Mr. Gerald White spoke to the group especially stressing the importance of education. After the assembly, old and new members joined their parents for a brief celebration.

New GAA members Kim Hunter and Kay Christensen bow down to the old members as they are initiated into the club.

Typical of most students, Valerie Thornhill, John Carder, and John Nicholson talk in the halls before school.

Debra Tharp raises money for the GAA by selling Donald Miles a basketball program sold at all home games.

Thomson Baker receives his National Honor Society pin from Secretary Harriette Witten during the NHS induction service.

David Green buys ice cream from Michael Ballato since the drink and nab machines were removed from the cafeteria.

Art Department Shows the Christmas Spirit

As the Christmas season rolled around once again, students expressed their happiness in many ways. The Art Department decorated the halls with many different Christmas paintings. These pictures were thought up and drawn by the students themselves. Adding a special brightness to the monotonous halls, the pictures were only one of the ways individuals showed their Christmas cheer.

Also decorating the halls, several students, taking French, put up a bulletin board in the main hall showing Christmas in France.

Showing its spirit, the Music Department presented a Christmas concert on December 13. The choral music classes sang and the school band played many old and new Christmas songs.

Exhibiting its Christmas cheer, the SCA placed a tree in the hall and decorated it with ornaments. Homeroom representatives were responsible for having Christmas boxes, to be filled with canned goods, placed in their respective homerooms.

Despite many disagreements, school did not let out for Christmas vacation until December 22. Students returned having only thirteen days of vacation instead of the usual two weeks.

Thomas Clark, better known as Santa Claus, relaxes before he appears on stage at the Home Economics fashion show.

Lewis Armstrong and Donald Miles relax completely as they read newspapers in the library during study hall.

Martha Mitchell and Suzanne Mann show Christmas spirit by decorating the tree placed in the main hall by the SCA.

Varsity cheerleader Connie Cameron supports the Blue Devils in one of the many ways by placing posters in the halls.

Lynne Goldsborough practices a routine for a gymnastic meet while expertly performing a perfect walk-over.

Lynne Brumett and Janice Deane hurriedly leave school on December 22 for two weeks of Christmas vacation.

Exam Schedule Revised Twice Due to Snow

Snow fell on the first day that exams were scheduled to start causing school to be called off and moving exams up one day. Students returned to school the next day and took their first two exams. Then it snowed once again and exams had to be rescheduled for the next day.

Starting off the second semester, the traditional dress code was revised. The new code allowed girls to wear pant suits and tunic outfits. Before the change, no pants of any kind could be worn by girls. With the PTA and the student body backing the revision, first Mr. Piper, principal, signed it, and then the school board passed it. The new code was strictly enforced allowing only the specified apparel.

Juniors gathered in Room 10 during their respective study halls to order their class rings. Beginning this year, junior girls could order the miniature sized class rings instead of the usual larger size. The ring would be exactly the same, only on a smaller scale.

Reaching for a magazine, Nash Johnson and Joan Clatterbuck exhibit the new addition to the dress code, pants suits.

Students watch intently while the Blue Devils win again.

Home Economic student, Judith Denny, models the outfit she made for the winter fashion show held in January.

Talking into the microphone, Wayne Woodward tapes a radio program on the purpose of the Human Relations Committee.

Examining the different selections of stones, Edward Reich, Larry Jenkins, Larry Ferguson, and Ronald Utz decide on their rings. This is a privilege given to Juniors.

Exchange Student Makes Home at CCHS

Mary Furzer of Rhodesia came to Culpeper as an AFS student in the summer of 1970 and attended the high school as a senior. Mary lived with the Norman Wilbur family, who served as her American parents. Culpeper plans to have more AFS students attend the school in the future.

Working all year, the Junior class raised money and prepared for the prom which is traditionally given to seniors. The juniors raised money from stationery sales and a grub day while the work on the prom was done by the students themselves.

Seniors prepared for the coming events as winter came to a close and graduation neared. They ordered their caps and gowns, and selected invitations for graduation. Many seniors looked forward to the new life about to begin while others were sorrowful when they thought of going.

As the doors to another school year closed for summer vacation, students relaxed while trying to predict the coming future.

Reviewing his paper thoroughly, William Karnes concentrates in the hall while taking a make-up test for English.

Seeing snow for the first time, AFS student Mary Furzer takes a last look at the melting snow around the school.

Directed by Mrs. Wilbur Thompson, the Choral Music classes combine for a winter concert presented to the school.

Helping to promote school spirit among the students, a local band provides music and entertainment at a pep rally.

Coach John Averett gives a talk and introduces the basketball team during a pep rally before the James Monroe game.

Students profited from the county's own psychologist who adjusted the class schedules to co-ordinate with the student. Through assignments and classwork, the faculty members emphasized the importance of new truths and new ideas which constituted a part in the development of a new light on old traditions.

CURRICULUM

In the search of knowledge for today, the days of believing without questioning no longer existed. A well-rounded school program of 62 courses provided the student with a variety of classes from which to choose. Composing a part in a new light on old traditions was the goal of preparing a student for the now world.

Various Paperbacks Used in Honors English

Instead of using textbooks, the Honors English students used various paperbacks which covered a wide range of literature. In the first half of the year, the class studied essays, American short stories, and a biography of Oliver Wendell Holmes. The second semester the class studied Shakespeare's "Macbeth", six modern plays, Hardy's "Return of the Native", and modern verse.

Several novels such as "Gulliver's Travels" and "The Merchant of Venice" were part of the agenda for the twelfth grade classes. The textbook served as the primary base for all work in college preparatory classes; however, they studied one play and one novel. In general classes, students shared grammar and literature equally.

Hot debates on the author's view in text highlighted the eleventh grade classes. Filmstrips and recordings aided the students in classroom study. One of the main requirements was the short story.

In the tenth grade English classes, they corresponded closely with the textbook in the reading of novels and in poetry presentation.

Events happening in the ninth grade English classes included the reading of such novels as "Frankenstein" and studying such classics, as "Romeo and Juliet". Highlighting Miss Florence Brower's English classes, the students listened to the rock opera "Tommy" by the "Who".

Douglas Taylor gladly presents his oral book report to his English class. Most English teachers require their students to prepare eight book reports per year.

Annual Mathematics Contest Highlights Year

Highlighting the school year in the Mathematics department was the Annual High School Mathematics Contest sponsored jointly by the Mathematical Association of America, the Society of Actuaries, Nu Alpha Theta Society, and National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. Students who participated in this event were those in Advanced Mathematics and Trigonometry-Advanced Algebra.

Several audio-visual aids have been used in the department this year such as transparencies for the overhead projection of mathematics models. Due to the change in textbooks last year the basic programs in the different areas of the Math department have not changed in the presentation of the subject matter.

Elaine Nicholson plots point 2, -3 on the linear graph as a part of her Algebra II classwork.

Sallie Washington, Jeffrey Thomas, and Timothy Beard demonstrate logic reasoning in Geometry class.

Freshmen Not Allowed to Schedule Biology

For the second consecutive year freshmen were not allowed to place biology on their schedule. This increased the number of students taking Physical Science 9, a course in preparation for later sciences such as Biology and Chemistry.

Students in the science classes devoted most of their time to solving different types of problems. By learning various equations, the students computed the cost of their own electric lightbill and found accurate solutions for pressure, machine, and work problems. After solving problems, classes worked in the special physical science laboratory to check their calculations which gave them better understanding of the course.

In biology courses, students first studied several topics and then went to the laboratory for the dissection of small animals such as frogs, worms, and starfish and specific details of each. Chemistry classes, unlike previous years, spent more time studying aspects of organic chemistry.

Disecting an earthworm proves to be interesting to Evelyn Haught and Irma Dwyer. Biology students are required to disect other specimens, such as starfish and frogs.

Martha Chappell and Timothy Cooper demonstrate one of the many Physics projects prepared during the year.

Students Learn Fundamentals of Democracy

Presenting an oral report as part of her semester project, Julianne Wiest elaborates on the Civil War period.

Examining a map of the world, Donald Greene locates a country that his Geography class recently studied.

Government classes learned the basic principles of democracy by studying from paperback booklets. Filling out income tax forms was a major second semester project. In Mr. Floyd Binns' government classes, required news articles helped the students to gain more knowledge about the world.

Highlighting the year in the United States History classes were a tour to Washington, D.C., a talk by a representative from State Park of Manassas on the Civil War, skits of historical events and presidential campaigns.

World Geography classes enjoyed slides and lectures of Mr. Baldwin's summer travels.

Students complete their income tax forms in Government class. This was mandatory for students taking the course.

Double Period Classes Enrollment Totals 67

Offering for the second consecutive year double period classes in stenography and clerk-typist courses, the business department enrolled a total of sixty-seven students.

Other students took single classes offered such as typing, shorthand, business law, business math, and vocational office training.

Equipment such as electric typewriters, IBM key punch machines, a sorter, and a bookkeeping machine aided the students in the classrooms.

Typing I, still the school's most popular elective, stressed invoices, tabulations, and manuscript typing. Students who wanted typing for personal use took summer school courses.

Daily exercise for typists is the timing which improves speed and stamina. Paul Wiest types diligently trying to achieve a better score on his timing.

While in Bookkeeping class, Nash Johnson computes a series of sums. Bookkeeping is included under General.

Two Additional Subjects Enlarge Curriculum

For the first time, the Language department offered French III and Spanish IV. Because only a few students enrolled in Spanish IV, that class combined with the Spanish III class. Together the two advanced Spanish classes printed and published a Spanish newspaper with news and comics.

Since only two students enrolled in French III, their class combined with French II. All French classes joined in Christmas festivities by sharing traditional Christmas carols.

Spooks entered the Latin I and Latin II classes for Halloween as students read Latin ghost stories. The Latin students brought on the Christmas spirit by singing Latin carols.

David Triplett receives instructions by the use of earphones in his French II class.

William Karnes, John Hagan, Bonita Rosenberg, Susan Young, Joseph Weld, and Robert Potter go over their drills in Spanish class.

Art Program Consists of Various Departments

Art, Home Economics, Drama, Band, and Choral Music made up the Arts program for this year. These classes expanded over the year due to the new light focused on them by the students.

Poster contests, the Fall Art Fair, and the spring exhibit highlighted the art classes. Students from all classes participated in these programs. In the classrooms, the students improved their skills by working with ceramics and clay.

Films, shown in home economic classes, helped the girls to learn more about economy. The two most interesting projects for the year turned out to be the fashion show and the serving of doughnuts and milk in the mornings before school.

Students from Band and Choral Music presented the annual Christmas Concert to the public. The "Swingin' Rock" group, consisting of six students, was formed by the Choral Music classes.

Speeches and panel discussions highlighted drama classes. Drama II classes helped in preparing the props for the play "Life With Father".

Irma Brock adds the final touches on her maxi coat, a project for her Home Economics class.

Theodore Durham, Helen Maddox, Janice Marcus, and Larry

Green practice for the annual Choral concert.

Variety of Sports Enlighten Phys Ed Classes

John Fotenos and George Taylor work on their project in woodworking and welding for shop class.

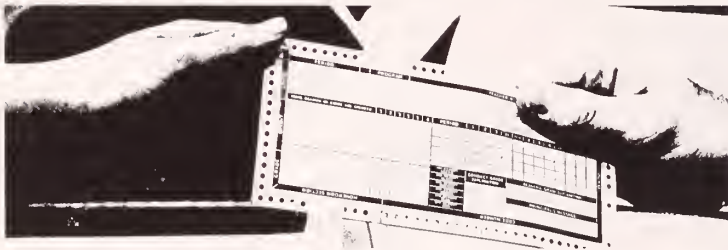

Physical Education classes participated in a variety of sports. After completing the Physical Fitness Tests, students went outside to learn football, hockey, and soccer fundamentals. Later in the year they worked on basketball, baseball, softball, and modern dance. Rainy days were spent in the gym.

Classroom studies included Drivers Education, First Aid, and Mental Health. Eligible students were allowed to take "Behind the Wheel" training during their Physical Education period.

In order for students to improve their skills, many areas of study were offered in the shop classes this year. Students participated in such activities as woodworking, printing, and working with leather. Other studies offered for the students included photography, electricity, car mechanics, and metals.

Miss Anne Yeatts and Barbara Terry watch while Mary Catherine Chilton does sit-ups for Physical Fitness Test.

SPORTS

Ninth grade football became part of the athletic schedule while regular sports continued under a new set-up by the VHSL. Boosted by school spirit, the teams strove for the number one position in the district. This mingling of the old and the new represents a new light on old traditions.

Diamondmen Upset Powerful Stafford Team, 3-0

Fielding a 6-14 record, the 1970 Varsity Baseball Team had an improved season over the previous year. Under the coaching of Mr. Michael Randall, the diamondmen became feared batsmen and upset the powerful Stafford Indians 3-0.

Knoeking off the rival Orange team twice was the highlight of the season. Strong pitching by senior William Yowell and timely hits by Franklin Pendleton, Richard Thornhill, and Michael Curtis aided the Devils in their 4-1 and 2-1 victories. Playing heads-up baseball, Culpeper took advantage of two errors to push Stephen Southard across for the winning run in the close second game.

Compiling four victories to only three defeats, the Junior Varsity Baseball Team swept two games from the rival Orange Hornets and the James Monroe Yellow Jackets.

Ace right-hander, Wayne Dickerson hurled a no-hitter against James Monroe on May 16, 1970 for the highpoint of the season.

Intramural Program Creates Tennis Interest

Thirty girls came out for the 1970 intramural tennis program. In the two months of practices, they not only learned warm-up exercises before playing a game but such skills as the correct procedure for serving and hitting the ball. Another important fundamental the girls learned was how to play and keep the score of a full tennis game.

With teams divided into two groups, each group practiced two days a week at Mr. Gordon Harris' courts in Stevensburg. Miss Patricia Cullen, coach, commented that Mr. Harris was kind enough to let the team use the courts any day they wanted to, making it possible for the girls to practice often.

Although the girls did not have a chance to play against each other in a tournament, Miss Cullen said that the girls worked hard and the time spent on the program was worthwhile.

Errorless Game Completes Devilettes Season

Reva Hash rejoices across the plate as she racks up another run in a game against Stafford at the Junior High Field.

With losses only to Louisa, Stafford, and Fauquier, the Devilettes had a winning season. The outstanding victory of the season was the 8-1 win over Stafford, with a homer, a double, and a single. The Stafford squaws handed the Devilettes their second loss of the season. Stafford rallied in the fifth over the Devilettes 5-0 lead to win 13-5.

A win over William Monroe 26-0 was a highlight of the season as the Devilettes played errorless ball and ended the game with a double play. The pitcher was Ethel Warner who went the route allowing only one walk the entire game.

Golfers Complete Season with Quantico Win

Getting off to a slow start, the Culpeper golf team lost four of their first five matches. Then with a late season surge, the linksters swept a dual match from Woodbridge and Garfield and ended the season with a 7-2 triumph over Quantico.

Chosen to represent Culpeper in the state tournament were John Rudy, James Dean, Charles Norris, and David Small. The Shen-Valee Country Club of New Market again hosted the match on May 18, 19, and 20. With individual scores of John Rudy—152, James Dean—158, David Small—171, and Charles Norris—183, the linksters finished ninth in the state topping all Northern Virginia Teams.

JM Losses Hold Devilettes from First Place

Although the Varsity Hockey Team lost to James Monroe twice, the Devilettes still captured second place in the district. According to Coach Patricia Cullen, James Monroe was an outstanding game of the season even though it was a loss. The Devilettes had control of the ball most of the entire game. The best offensive game of the season was a match with King George, here. Bernice Tharp was outstanding with three goals of the five made.

Blue Devils Complete 8-1-1 Winning Season

Falling only to the powerful James Monroe Yellow Jackets, the 1970 Varsity Football Team finished with the best season since 1952. With the traditional strong defense, led by left linebacker James Moore, opponents scored only 26 points the entire season.

Under the explosive running of Edward Lee and Kenneth May, the Devils featured a balanced offensive attack scoring 253 points. Following the 14-0 victory over George Mason in the opening game, Culpeper suffered a set-back tying Faquier 6-6. With the exception of the James Monroe game, the Devils won the rest of their games, scoring double figures in each one and giving up only eight points.

Revenge last year's loss, the gridders defeated the Orange Hornets 34-0 before a thrilled Homecoming crowd of over 5,000 people. Edward Lee's open field running matched with the passing of David Small, combined with the blankety-blank defense quelled any rumors that Orange would defeat the Devils.

The team just kept rolling on climaxing the season with a 52-0 victory over Bowling Green. In this game the benches were emptied and everyone except the coaches and managers got into the game.

With the 8-1-1 record the Culpeper County High School Varsity Football Team finished second in the Battlefield District behind James Monroe.

Trying desperately for a first down, Culpeper wingback Kenneth May is shoved out of bounds by a Warren County wildcat. Culpeper won the game 21-8, bringing the record to 6-1-1.

JV Team Gains Experience; Defeats Orange

Closing the season with a 4-5 record, the JV Football team gained valuable experience and training.

Twice defeating the rival Orange team proved to be the highlight of the season. Led by the broken field running of Ronald White and William Chapman the Baby Devils were powered to a 22-0 victory in the exciting first game. White started the scoring by returning a first half punt 65 yards. The second score of the game came in the second half when Champan returned the kickoff 80 yards in the middle. The final touchdown came in the third period on a one yard plunge by Craig Dill. The remaining four points, were scored by Chapman and David Johnson who crossed the goal line for a two point conversion apiece.

Culpeper tailback, William Chapman, speeds around right end for a sizable gain against the Spotsylvania JV team. The run was in vain, however, as Spotsy won 18-0.

Tradition Shattered; Freshman Team Formed

For the first time in the school's history, CCHS carried a separate ninth grade football team. Coaches hoped this program would serve to develop the players and allow them to see more actual play.

Led by the hard running of halfbacks Sanford Reaves and Ronald Phillips, the Baby Blue Devils chalked up three victories while losing four. One victory was gained at the expense of Woodberry Forest and the other two from Orange. Quarterback James McNamar's bootleg play in the second quarter compiled the only score of the Woodberry Forest game. The fine defense led by tackle Gregory Hann and linebacker Henry Jenkins limited their opponents to only 75 points the entire season.

Devils Achieve Top Title of District Champs

Completing the season with the best overall record in Culpeper history, the 1970-1971 Varsity Basketball Team brought home another Battlefield District Championship. During their first year in Double A competition, the Devils compiles a 16-2 regular season record.

Burning their opponents with seven games of 80 points or more, the Devils suffered only two setbacks. Both losses were quickly revenged and Culpeper finished second in the district at the end of the regular season play.

Culpeper placed two starters on the All-District team, senior William Thornhill who broke every scoring record in the Battlefield District, and junior Ronald Utz, who was selected by unanimous vote to the All-District post.

Being the youngest team in the district, the Blue Devils made up in speed, stamina, and teamwork. Following the 72-71 victory over James Monroe for the District Championship, the Devils went to Charlottesville to meet the Turner Ashby Knights in the Regional Play-Offs.

New District Rule Governs Gymnastics Team

Coach Anne Yeatts assists Sherene Brown in a walk over. Sherene participates in floor exercise and the balance beam.

Due to a new district rule, the entire Gymnastics team participated on the beginning level. Judy Denny, Kathryn Magura, and Lynne Goldsborough competed in all-around which consisted of balance beam, uneven bars, free exercise, vaulting, and tumbling. Longwood College in Farmville Virginia hosted the State Meet the first weekend of March.

Coach Anne Yeatts commented, "With everyone participating on the beginner level, there is more time for work on more difficult stunts during practice. This means we should be better prepared to compete on the optional level next year."

Anticipating the landing, Bernice Tharp performs a straddle vault. It is one of the vaults in the beginner's routine.

Grapplers End Great Season with 11-1 Record

Finishing the season with an 11-1 record, the 1970-71 Varsity Wrestling Team won more matches than any previous team. Led by undefeated wrestler Robert Edwards, and co-captain senior John Fotenos, the Devils swept through dual match competition losing only one to Spotsylvania High. Highlighting the regular season was a 50-0 shut-out victory over Stafford.

Carrying the momentum into the tournaments, the grapplers came from behind in the District Tournament to become Battlefield District Champions. Placing every member of the team in the top three, the Devils upset favored Spotsylvania 104-88 for the title. With nine district champions, the wrestlers went to Spotsylvania High School to participate in the Region II tournament. Once again the Devils came from behind to defeat the eight teams represented and walked away with the first place trophy. Daniel Blosser, Robert Blosser, Robert Edwards, and John Fotenos finished first in their weight classes becoming regional champions.

Ten Devil Grapplers represented Culpeper at Fauquier High School in the State AA Tournament. Topping all Northern Virginia teams the Devils placed six wrestlers in qualifying positions including two state champions, Robert Blosser and John Fotenos. With the points accumulated, the Devils finished the season as AA runners-up.

Led by Co-captains, Thomas Martin and James Diehl, the Junior Varsity wrestling team finished with a 6-5 record. Highlighting the season were the two victories against Louisa by scores of 41-8 and 43-8. The young grapplers gained valuable experience in match play and did not lose a single match following the set-back suffered against Spotsylvania.

ORGANIZATIONS

Two new clubs increased the curriculum as students had the chance to broaden their field of interests. Activities varied greatly, from serving breakfast to playing chess. All clubs seemed activated and demonstrated a willingness to strive for changes which symbolized a new light on old traditions.

Council Sells License Plates to Net Funds

Council members of the SCA sold Culpeper Blue Devil license plates at all home football games. The blue plates with gold lettering became a big success for the hard workers that acted as salesmen. Some of the boys helped direct cars into the parking lot at football games.

Back-to-School night September 22 brought out members of the SCA. They guided wondering parents around the halls and gave out late slips to those very few that did not quite make it on time.

Sponsoring Homecoming on October 9, the SCA presented Queen Kyle Lovett with a crown of white carnations and baby's breath, a dozen red roses, and a congratulatory kiss from Assistant Principal Harold Hook. Maid of Honor Billie Cox received a dozen yellow roses.

Interested members attended the District SCA meeting on November 7. Learning how to improve the SCA organization these members attended various sessions throughout the day.

For the first time in school history, three black students from each class attended the SCA meetings. These students—selected at large by members of their respective classes—acted as representatives for all black students. This created a new light on the old traditions of the Student Cooperative Association.

Candidates for Homecoming Queen, Billie Cox and Kyle Lovett, excitedly await that special moment when the Queen will be announced. The SCA sponsored the Homecoming and provided the bouquets for the Queen and the Maid of Honor.

NHS Tap-in Service Is First Assembly of Year

During the first assembly of the year, the Honor Society had the tap-in service for new members. Thirty-four students received the honor of becoming a member of the NHS. Mr. Gerald White, guest speaker spoke on the student and the world facing him.

Changes in scholastic requirements made membership harder to obtain. New sophomore members had to have an average of 3.4, juniors had to have an average of 3.2, and the seniors had to have an average of 3.0. As always, all members must keep above a two in conduct to remain a member.

NHS coaches assisted those who needed help in a particular subject. Members coached students in the honor study hall before and after school.

Again this year members of the Honor Society had the privilege of using the honor study hall during their regularly scheduled study period.

In the Spring members held the annual candy sales, which raised money for a scholarship given to an outgoing senior. Many members attended the annual conference of Honor Societies in the northern Virginia area held at W.T. Woodson High School.

First Issue of School Paper Welcomes Students

Pepergram staff members began work in the summer in order to present students with the first of their ten issues on the opening day of school. Members often found themselves rewriting a copy several times in order for their stories to reach perfection.

Five members attended a workshop at the University of Virginia in November. Mrs. Wayne Duncan, adviser, accompanied the team of writers. Advice given at this workshop helped complete the final issues of the Pepergram. This workshop proved exciting for all staff members. The Virginia High School League presented the Pepergram with a trophy for their fine 1970 publications.

Sponsoring a talent show for the second year, the Pepergram staff held auditions and confined the program to a maximum of thirty participants. Talent ranged from piano playing, to skits, to dramatic readings. Talented teachers as well as students participated and enjoyed a few laughs.

Dedicating the last issue to the Class of '71, proved to be the most enjoyable task for senior editor Keith Pickerel. Seniors' baby pictures, class prophecy, last will and testaments, and the class poem and song easily filled a three-page spread. Seniors treasured this issue of the Pepergram as a remembrance of their final year.

Members Attend VHSL Workshop for Ideas

Virginia High School League formed a Virginia Scholastic Press Association for the first time in Virginia. Members of various schools attended the conference workshop at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville in November.

Attending this workshop for three days in the fall, five members returned with bright new ideas. Miss Mary George Bolen and Mr. Robert Shoemake accompanied the members for the conference.

Edited by Ann Green the 1970 yearbook captured the All American Award given by the National Scholastic Press Association. The COLONNADE won this award for the tenth time over numerous years.

Under the editing of Ann Kite and Kathryn Magura, the COLONNADE began the year by retaking some individual pictures three times.

Having a week's delay in club pictures also added a few additional grey hairs to the editors.

Having a COLONNADE class, all staff editors met their individual deadlines on time. Four deadlines in November, January, February, and March helped the yearbook staff ready the COLONNADE for 1971. Workshops held on school holidays and some Saturdays added additional time for the staff to meet their deadlines and complete the book.

New ideas for different pictures and new ways of writing copy dominated the minds of staff editors. Vertical pictures helped to shine a new light on the old traditions for this school year.

Seniors received their annuals in the morning on Class Day '71 held May 21. Underclassmen impatiently waited until after the Class Day assembly in the afternoon to receive their COLONNADE.

Hi-Y Strives for More Christianity in Locality

Striving for better Christianity throughout the community, the Hi-Y Club attended several conferences. One conference, held at Fairfax, helped the boys to learn the true meaning of the club.

Sponsoring the "Battle of the Bands" contest for the second consecutive year helped the club raise funds for the year. Financial support helped send three boys to Model General Assembly.

Hi-Yers participated in National Y-Club week. They stressed the need for good fellowship throughout the home and community at this time. Attending a different church one Sunday of every month aided the boys in understanding religion.

Tri-Hi-Y Girls Hold Bake Sale to Net Funds

Holding a bake sale in the Culpeper Shopping Center September 26, Tri-Hi-Y members started one of their biggest school years ever. All members participated in the fund raising drive by either bringing cake, cookies, or candy or by helping throughout the day to sell the goodies.

Tri-Hi-Y members helped advocate KOPE week throughout the school and community. KOPE stood for Klean Our Polluted Environment. Posters adorned the halls of CCHS as well as local stores.

Three delegates traveled to Richmond for three days during April. They attended Model General Assembly and served as members of the Senate.

To carry out the goals of extending Christian character, the members clothed a needed child at Easter. They also helped sponsor a Halloween party for children in the local area.

Officers for the following year attended the Leadership Training Conference August 1-7. Traveling to Massanetta Springs for this conference, the girls enjoyed recreation at nights after hard sessions during the days.

Taking it easy after a hard day, Allen Hughes sits beneath an interesting sign. Tri-Hi-Y members placed signs such as this throughout the school in order to promote their Klean Our Polluted Environment campaign.

GAA Has Cheerleading Program for First Time

Traveling to all girls' sports, six school spirit boosters helped the girl participants win their respective sports. New blue and gold uniforms with matching gold bows helped CCHS students become aware of the girls' events.

Moneymaking projects for the year consisted of a dance given on October 30 after the football game. Music presented by a local band highlighted the night for Halloween couples.

Selling programs for all home basketball games helped add additional funds for the GAA. Listing all the basketball players, their number, height, and the number of years of experience as a player helped fans familiarize themselves with the Devils.

Initiation for new members consisted of dressing up the girls in every type of outfit thinkable. During Activity Period the new initiates received the real test in the girls' locker room.

Concluding the year the annual GAA vs. the Women's Faculty basketball game was again played. A bake sale during half-time netted funds for the following year's expenses.

Discussing the point system before the regularly scheduled third Wednesday meeting, Miss Patricia Cullen, adviser; and Robin Adair, president; decide how many points should be earned for selling programs at home basketball games.

Varsity Club

Varsity Club Sells Popcorn to Hungry Fans

Popping popcorn at home football games raised funds for the Varsity Club. Three members per game volunteered to serve the hungry Devil fans.

Filly dresses and ruffly blouses, adorned the halls of CCHS in April. Fifteen boys paraded around in these outfits as part of their initiation. Singing songs before their classes, bowing to old members, and running around the cafeteria during lunch proved to be fun for everyone except the new recruits. The boys received their final workout in the locker room.

Sponsoring a Sweetheart Dance in February proved to be the highlight of the year. Sweetheart couples danced to the music of a local band after the home basketball game.

Attracting a large crowd, the Varsity Club played the men's faculty in a basketball game. During half-time the new members had a fashion show displaying their baby bottles and diapers.

Varsity Club members, Marvin Dawson and Kenny Marlor listen to plans for a coke sale during home basketball games.

New Formations Add Spice to Performances

Trying to move ahead with new and exciting ideas, the band made many lively and unique formations during their half-time performances at Devil football games. The pep band supported the cheerleaders during pep rallies in striving to create a better esprit de corps among the students.

Both parents and students enjoyed the band's Christmas Concert, which amplified the joy of the Christmas season. The band worked in conjunction with the Choral Music Club.

Traveling all over the state, the band played to varied audiences, ranging from the crowds attending Band Day at the University of Virginia to some of the small parades in the county.

Always endeavoring to reach higher goals, members of the band participated in the District Band Festival and the Area Band Festival, both in the spring of the year.

Making a record of some of the band's favorite tunes was an unusual and exciting experience for band members. The selling of the records was the moneymaking project of the club.

Melodies of the band's annual Spring Concert showed the hard work of the members in preparation for the program presented to the public.

New Breakfast Club Aids Hungry Students

Selling doughnuts and milk before school, the Future Homemakers of America Club raised money for the organization. Students that missed breakfast at home enjoyed the variety of doughnuts sold. Later in the year the FHA'ers added coffee and hot chocolate to the breakfast menu.

All girls enjoyed a Fashion Show presented by the home economic classes. Modeling wearing apparel for every occasion, the FHA girls had made their outfits with the assistance of Miss Jolinda Lloyd, the home economics adviser.

Members of the FHA helped with the fashion show by decorating the stage in the auditorium, describing the models' outfits, and giving each model a candy cane as she left the stage.

At the conclusion of the program, the club presented Miss Lloyd with a red poinsettia to enjoy throughout the Christmas holidays.

Officers Suzanne Mann, point chairman; Kathryn Powers, breakfast chairman; Pamela Hicks, reporter; Lily Clark, vice president; Sheila Williams, treasurer; and Wanda Grayson,

Culpeper Hosts Battlefield District Workshop

Culpeper, for the first time, played host to the Battlefield District Drama Workshop on February 9. This workshop proved to be very helpful when the members attended the One-Act Play Festival at Spotsylvania High School in March. The student body enjoyed the play presented a few days previously representing Culpeper in this event.

Make-up, costumes, lights, and rehearsals highlighted the club's activities for the month of October. Presenting a three-act play to the public, November 13 and 14, all members participated with some phase of the play. "Life With Father"—a comedy—staged a large cast. Drama II Classes served as stage crew and furnished the realistic scenery for the big production.

Programs at the regular monthly meetings on third Wednesdays—although assorted—served to create an interest in drama and inform the members about fields of theatrical work.

For the second consecutive year the Junior Athletic Club met during first Wednesday's Activity schedule. Under the direction of Mr. Michael Randall, thirty-one boys participated in a variety of programs.

Discussing various sports served as the main theme for the boys. Watching films on golf, tennis, football, and basketball helped influence the younger boys to participate in the wide number of sports offered.

Concluding the year the boys presented Mr. Randall with a token of their appreciation and thanks for the many hints he gave them throughout the 1970-'71 school year.

Librarians Sell Candy to Appropriate Funds

Library Club officers and sponsor; Brenda Carder, vice president; Diane Payne, president; Miss Mary George Bolen, sponsor; Cheryl Jenkins, secretary; and Betty Rupard, treasurer, relax after a hard day of checking out books.

Library Club members held their annual fund raising project November 9-20. Selling candy proved more profitable than the usual selling of their annual zip code directories.

During some of their meetings, the club hosted special guests. Mrs. Charles Cawthorn, Mr. Donald Baldwin, Mr. Robert Shoemake, Miss Ellen Swope, and Mrs. Irvin Wolf spoke at various meetings about the different countries they visited.

For Library Week a committee did a bulletin board in the school hall. This committee consisted of Patty Kallas—chairman, Diana Morris, and Debbie Thompson. Other members helped also.

Members enjoyed a local field trip on March 10. This served as a time for all members to relax.

Members of the Library Club worked throughout the year during their study halls in the library. They assisted students and aided teachers in finding books, magazines, and newspaper.

Concluding the year, members enjoyed a trip to Fredricksburg where they took a walking tour.

Cheryl Jenkins checks out Laura LaGrow's book as part of her duties as assistant librarian.

'Noel En France' Displayed by French Club

Displaying a French bulletin board in the CCHS hall for Christmas, French Club members began their year. During school before the Christmas holidays, members visited various classrooms throughout the day. They presented these students with several carols sung in French that had been learned during their first Wednesday's meetings.

Films of France and various countries highlighted the meetings throughout the nine school months. Mrs. Irvin O. Wolf, adviser, presented the films and explained the various slides.

All interested members attended a picnic in May at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wolf. They engaged in various games related to French culture.

Last minute touches are added to the French Club bulletin board by Janice Jolliffe and Anne O'Connell before CCHS students begin to admire "Noel En France."

Romans Restore Latin Language for Students

Promoting the culture and language of the Romans, the Latin Club began the new year with a new adviser, Mrs. Scott Yancey. Under the new leadership the club began a program for the revitalization of the Latin language. Giving the Latin Club a face lift made the club more appealing to many students.

Modern Romans trudged the halls of the school on the day of the initiation of new members into the club. With their Roman togas flowing, the new members attended classes as usual, but with one extra duty, the declining of nouns and the conjugating of verbs before their classes began.

Undertaking a moneymaking project, the club held a bake sale in February which helped to meet the financial needs of the organization.

Future Teachers Help in District N Meeting

Future Teachers of America kicked off the 1970-71 school year by assisting with the District N Teachers' Meeting on September 26. Helping to register people from the Northern Virginia District, showing them the various classrooms, and serving refreshments kept the FTA members busy throughout the day.

Conducting the annual coat check raised funds for the club. Three members helped at each home basketball game checking coats, hats, gloves, and such for only a dime apiece.

Helping with the special education class served as the main project for the Future Teachers. Teaching the children to spell words, make sentences, and by the end of the year to read paragraphs, helped the members ready themselves as teachers.

Concluding the year, the club presented a scholarship to a senior member going into teaching. Visiting a college in the spring, ended the year for the Future Teachers of America.

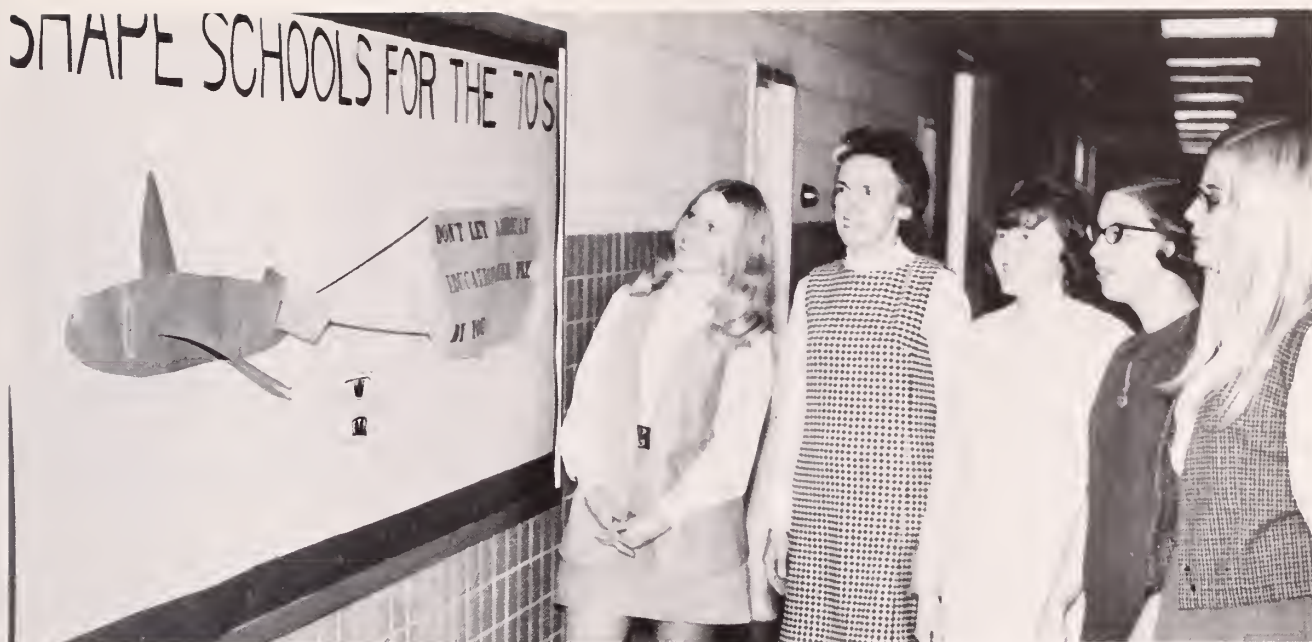

Putting the finishing touches on her Christmas bulletin board in Mr. Malcolm Mitchell's homeroom, Future Teacher Mary Lu Markham beamed with pride when her work won honorable mention in a school sponsored contest.

Club's Treasury Uped Two Thousand Dollars

Closing the sale of the annual Tom Watt Kits on November 13, the Future Business Leaders of America boosted the club's treasury up $2000. This proved to be the largest fund raising project for the year. Students enjoyed the delicious Cherrydale Candies that members of the FBLA began selling on November 18. These profits helped pay the expenses of 25 members when they traveled to Miami, Florida June 19 and returned on the 23 for the National Leadership Conference.

Members began Business Emphasis Week, February 8-12, by decorating various bulletin boards throughout the school. The parliamentary law, spelling, and public speaking contests helped promote the business week for members that participated in the different contests.

Honoring many merchants who employed students for work during the year, the annual Employer-Employee Banquet held on February 12, expressed the club's appreciation to their bosses. Winners of the various contests received their awards at this banquet held annually.

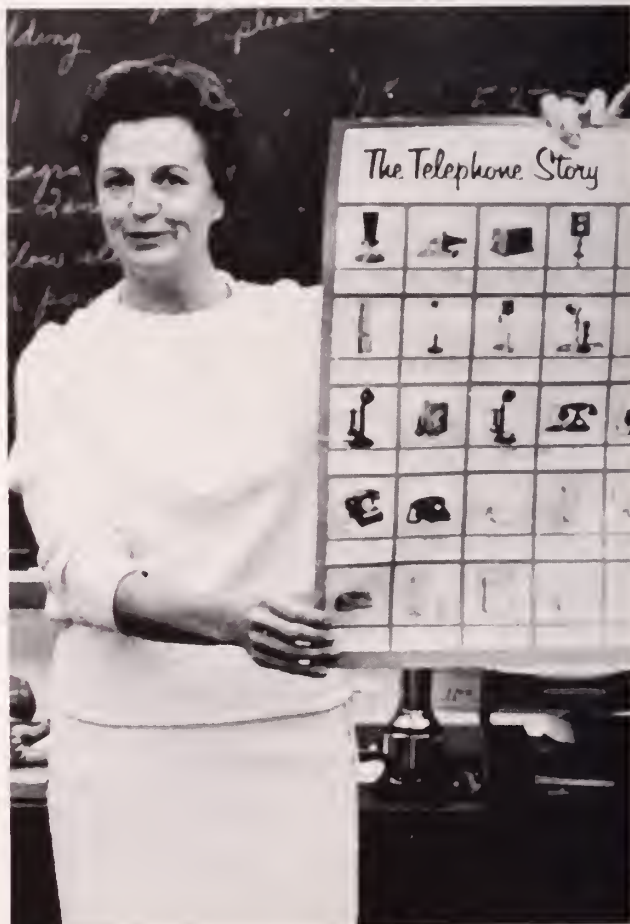

Sponsoring the Miss CCHS beauty contest and talent show for the third consecutive year involved all interested members on March 19. Future Business Leaders selected a master of ceremonies, decorated the stage, and helped calm the awaiting contestants.

Members chose to carry out a special theme this year. They chose "Building Leadership Through FBLA Promotion" as the 1970-'71 theme.

Explaining the annual Tom Watt sales, Danny Jones encourages each member to sell a minimum of $25.00.

FBLA members discover the proper uses of the telephone during one of their regular first Wednesday meetings. Mrs. Betty Powers, employee of the C&P Telephone Company of Culpeper, explains the importance of politeness on the telephone at home as well as the office.

Enjoying FBLA refreshments, at a party honoring new members, Cynthia Myers and Carolyn Gore find their membership in the club one of interest as well as fun.

FBLA officers Mrs. Albert Furguiele, adviser; James Mastin, president; Janet Shenk, vice president; Dona Green, second vice president; Danny Jones, treasurer; Cynthia Kearns, reporter; Linda Clatterbuck, parliamentarian; Theodore Durham,

Two Club Additions to Organization Roster

With hearts full of music and voices filled with talent, the Choral Music became officially a club. Presenting concerts for various occasions throughout the year helped the singers stay part of the Student Cooperative Association.

In conjunction with the CCHS band, the Choral Music Club presented a Christmas concert. Members of the club sold tickets to students, parents, friends, and faculty for their first concert of their first year as an organized club.

Presenting the student body with a concert on January 13 proved enjoyable for all students before exams began. Selections from "The Sound of Music", "Oliver", and several religious hymns highlighted the program.

Members presented a Spring Concert in April. Selling tickets, decorating the stage, and practicing during classes, members staged their final production before a capacity crowd.

During the Choral Music concert presented to the student body in January, Debra Gray, Barbara Thompson, and Cheryl Eddins sing a trio while Mrs. Eleanor Thompson directs other talented CCHS students awaiting their cue.

Barrett Schrack and Linda Fulton play an absorbing game of chess during one of the monthly meetings.

With the opening of school a new club, the Chess Club, arrived on the scene. The idea of forming this organization came from Matthew Capano and John Gabbert, both juniors.

John Gabbert served as president as of the first meeting. Other officers elected were Barrett Schrack, vice president; and Monica Seiter, secretary. Mrs. Donald Mills sponsored the new Chess Club.

Dues played an important part in the Club for several reasons. They helped buy space in the COLONNADE. However, the more important purpose they served was the purchasing of the chess sets. The club now owns thirteen sets.

Meeting during activity period every third Wednesday of the month and also on the first and fourth Tuesdays after school, the club taught people who did not know how to play the rules and fundamentals of the game.

In February Junior members participated in the various contests sponsored throughout the month.

Public speaking proved to be a challenge for several members—especially those having to speak before the Senior chapter.

Members made souvenirs for senior FBLA'ers given to them at the last meeting of the year. Graduating seniors felt honored at the "going-away" party the underclassmen presented to them.

Ecology Study Big Topic for Eager Beavers

Eager Beavers began their year with a study of ecology. Discussing pollution and environmental problems, members became concerned with problems of local areas as well as the state and nation.

Two projects for the Eager Beavers—4-H Community and Home Beautification and selling place mats—served as fund raising projects.

4-H contests held in March consisted of tractor driving, share-the-fun, demonstrations, judging, and the district 4-H tractor driving. While some 4-H'ers helped others participated in the 4-H sponsored horse show.

Working hard throughout the month of June, Eager Beavers participated in the State Junior Hereford and Junior Angus Field Days. Members of the state 4-H Congress attended sessions at VPI at Blacksburg, Virginia.

Interested members concluded the year by attending 4-H Camp at Holiday Lake. Some went as campers while more experienced ones as counselors.

Martha May and Robert Corbin listen to plans for the Spanish Club program during their first Wednesday meetings.

Under the leadership of a new adviser, Mrs. William Cawthorn, members enjoyed varied programs during their meetings. Mrs. Cawthorn showed slides from Mexico, where she studied Spanish.

Meeting the first Wednesday of every month during Activity Period, the Spanish Club began its second year. Enrollment increased this year to thirty-one, six more than the previous year.

All meetings, conducted in Spanish, aided students in understanding the language. During Spanish meetings a motion had to be made before anyone could speak in English.

Varsity Cheerleaders

Six Cheerleaders Capture Excellent Ratings

Six varsity cheerleaders attended camp at Virginia Beach during July. Competing in cheers, jumps, and different stunts made up the daily schedule. Bringing home four excellent and one outstanding ribbon boosted the cheerleaders morale for the school year.

Sponsoring a pep rally for the first football game, the varsity cheerleaders began promoting school spirit for the 1970-'71 school year. Under the direction of co-captains Dru Curd and Rosalind Henson, a pep committee was formed for all football and basketball games, these Blue Devil fans cheered the boys on to victory.

Cheerleaders decorated the cafeteria with blue and gold crepe paper for the Homecoming dance, held immediately after the game on October 9. Smiling cheerleaders furnished and helped serve the refreshments at this joyous occasion.

All cheerleaders helped decorate the lockers of football, cross-country, basketball, and track athletes. Posters which brightened the halls of CCHS kept students aware of scheduled events.

Doing new cheers throughout the school year helped promote school spirit. Practicing every afternoon readied the new girls on the squad for their first game against George Mason.

Martin Guides Seniors Through Final Year

Thomas Martin guided the class of '71 through its all-important final year. He could not have done such a tremendous job without the cooperation of his fellow officers and seniors, Charles Norris, Dru Curd, and Travis Thomas.

Early in the year plans were made for the annual class day program held late in May. The Seniors wrote the skits which were performed solely by members of the class.

Mr. Binns, class sponsor, took measurements for caps and gowns in his homeroom before school, during lunch, and after the weekly government tests.

Members of the Junior class followed the tradition of giving a prom for the graduating class. New light was shone on this happy occasion by the different theme and beautiful decorations.

With the final hurdle, exams, behind them, Seniors looked forward to graduation. This marked the ending of twelve years of preparation. This time of preparation led students to colleges, work, marriage or the military services.

Tharp, Monger, Magura, and Backe Preside

Striving to have the most successful Junior-Senior Prom Ever, members of the Junior class worked to raise money to meet the great expenses necessary. Grub Day, held by the Junior class, was a very lucrative and enjoyable project. The traditional sales of stationery before Christmas accomplished much of the pecuniary needs. In the spring the Juniors proved their creative abilities by having an arts and crafts sale.

Confronted during the year with many scholastic tests, Juniors tried to survive the mental strain. The guidance department gave SCAT and STEP tests in the fall. For college-bound Juniors there were the PSAT's and SAT's.

With the closing of the school year came the most important event for Juniors. Juniors received their class rings, symbol of the long, hard road to graduation.

Junior officers and sponsors for the class of 1972 worked hard with the other members of the class on the traditional project of making the prom a success and keeping the theme a secret until the last moment. The officers are; Kathryn Magura, secretary; John Backe, treasurer; Steven Monger, vice president; Mr. Thomas Earles, sponsor; Bernice Tharp, president; and Mr. Calvin Finlay, sponsor.

Class Elects Soph Julia Davis as President

Irvin Wolf, sponsor; Vicki Thornhill, vice president; and Julia Davis, president.

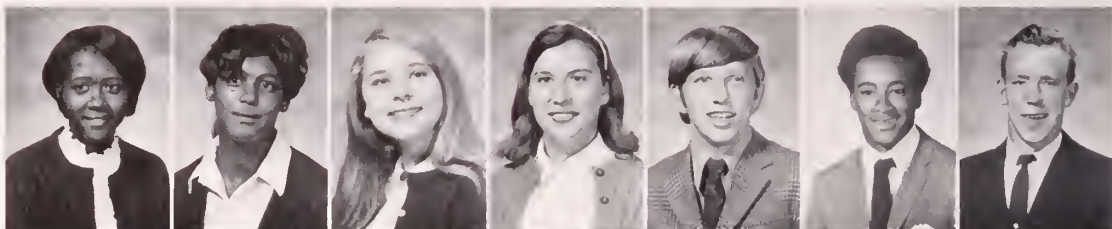

Sophomores found much to do—much to accomplish—physically, socially, and intellectually. They were in the middle of their high school years and in the middle of all school activities.

Excellence in academics was one of the many Sophomore class goals. Twenty-three Sophomores were inducted into the National Honor Society thus having the majority of new members.

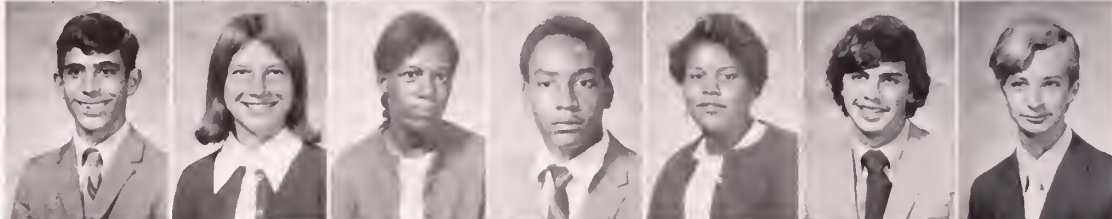

Doing their part for Homecoming, Sophomores chose Lynne Goldsborough as their representative for the 1970 Homecoming festivities.

Having the greatest number of students also proved to be effective at pep rallies. Sophs kept possession of the "Spirit Stick" more than their share of time due to greater lung power.

Blosser Leads Youngest Class Through Year

Eating on the wrong lunch shift or going to the wrong classes was soon forgotten as the Freshman class got down to work and started to make their impression on school life. The Freshmen found themselves challenged from all sides with many activities. The freshmen were required to make many decisions during their first year.

To test the minds of the Freshmen, the guidance office gave the SCAT and STEP tests. The tests helped plan the schedules of the Freshmen for the rest of their high school career.

For the first time, the Freshmen class built the float to carry the Homecoming queen and her court. The float, decorated with the school colors of blue and gold, was the highlight of the work of the Freshman class.

Freshman class officers and sponsors: Mr. James Avery, sponsor; Mrs. Richard Deal, sponsor; Michael Alvey, vice president; and Lynette Scott, secretary, are caught in the act of making plans for the homecoming float. Unfortunately president Lori Blosser and treasurer Sanford Reeves could not be present.

ADVERTISING

In preparation for future careers, the students invaded stores to work, to browse, or to meet friends. The by-pass, once seemingly far away, became a reality, and a new shopping center arose from former dirt and weeds. These changes along with former developments produced a new light on old traditions.

In the olden days

Wearing a ring on the forefinger signified
a haughty spirit;
On the middle finger, prudence and dignity;
On the "ring" finger, love;
On the little finger, a masterful spirit.
Today, on any finger, your Balfour class ring symbolizes moments and memories shared with your classmates.
Treasure them always.
